“ *Austin,
You shared your heartaches with us in a moment of openness and when we heard this sad news our hearts broke..... you were a good son and a good person. To the Cole family, we are so sorry for your loss. Austin cared deeply for his family. Though we only knew you briefly, we will hold close to those moments. Rest In Peace.*

“ You reared a handsome, capable, compassionate young man, an energetic husband and father who was willing to work by your side. I know this is a terrible loss for all of you. My heart goes out to you and I'll continue to ask the good LORD to comfort, strengthen and carry you all on in your endeavors to serve each other and your community. Cherish the memories of Austin. Memories are the gift of God that death cannot destroy. Remember,....Austin is in the hands of a just God, and may you all find comfort in knowing this. “ My heart hurts so very much for you Tony and Drew and all the family but know how very hard it will be for you and Drew as you saw and worked with Austin every day. Austin was the sweetest, kindest person and we felt he was just a part of our family as we do both you and Drew. I last talked with him the Wednesday before and so wish I'd have told him just how special and loved he was and how wonderful a person and how very impressed I was with the father he was. Bless his dear heart, he is at peace now.
