“ Words are still very hard to come to me. All my children mean the world to me and with the loss of Roy, it is still like a knife cutting into every part of my body. I love and miss him so much. I have to say that Roy was an amazing man, son, father, brother and friend. There will never be another like him, there was only one mold when he was born, and there will never be another like him ever. God knows he has a very special one when he decided to take Roy from us all, and I know you all are hurting too from the loss of him, and I am sorry that you and I have to go through this. I myself plan on seeing him again, When the Lord takes me , Roy will be there waiting for me. Please keep prayers coming for me, I am having a really hard time dealing with this, and I am not sure how long I can go on without going insane. Roy Alan , I love you son, and all your family loves you. I know you are waiting for us when it is time. I just dont know what to say really, but I have you in my heart and you will always remain there. See you when I get there, I love you son.....love always, Mom

“ I just want to say how thankful I am for Roy being such a great father to my children Mackenzie and Austin. He always put them first and in all of the 9 years we have been divorced he has not even once missed a child support payment. He told me several times that the payment for his kids and his house payment was always the first thing he paid. I feel so sad for my kids not being able to grow up with their dad around. I just sit here and think how my daughter will not have her dad to walk her down the isle and here to help my son fix up the car he bought him. I was counting on him teaching our son how to work on cars so he would be able to work on mine...bc he would only be learning from the best. I had loved that man so much when we were married and feel so bad about the things on my part that Ive done. So even though he isn't here I want to say how deeply sorry I am. I don't believe its to late bc I honestly believe that he is in heaven right now and he has forgiven me. I'm definetly going to miss his goofy sense humor when picking up the kids. I could write so much more but I have to stop somewhere. One last thing... Hold on to the memories in your heart and know °God promises Christians that they will be reunited whether through death
- The Christian who dies has the promise:
of an immediate reception into the Lord's presence of a resurrected body
of reunion with loved ones (fellow believers) Prayers for u all.

“ Roy was always kind and helpful. When Shaun and I were having a rough time with some "haters" at the lake he blessed us by paying for our dinner at Colton's - he didn't know how rough we were having it - but his thoughtfulness came at just the right time. I will miss your face Roy. (Shaun and Lanette Kunz)

“ I don't even know where to start , Roy has been in this family since we moved to this lake years ago . Him and Frankie were buddies for as long as I can remember. Roy was always at the house , they were always doing something together, I loved Roy like a son he was always respectful and always called me momma, I will miss that so much, he was always smiling, and laughing He was such an amazing person with the biggest heart. He surely loved his beer and the more he drank the louder the laugh. I just want to say how very sorry I am for the loss of such a good man , so many people loved Roy, I don't even think he really knew the lives he impacted by just being himself. but, I will miss him and all the laughter. I pray God gives you strength to get on with out him and I hope you know hes in Heaven where the angels go, and he doesn't ever have to worry about anything anymore, hes at peace.my prayers are with you all. It will be hard to say good-bye but we will see him again , and that I'm sure. My prayers are for the children that they grow up knowing the love this man had for them , he would do anything for his kids, and I hope they always know this
